Scott Hvistendahl has been employed at Northwestern College in Roseville as the rental manager for event services for more than six years.

Scott graduated from Augsborg in 1999 with a degree in business administration (marketing emphasis). During his time on campus, he was an integral part of the Auggies football team as a wide receiver. A three-time NCAA All-American, Scott graduated as the program's top performer in game, season, and career receptions and receiving yards, winning both NCAA Division III Player of the Year and MIAC Player of the Year honors in 1998 after breaking Jerry Rice's record for career receptions.

After college, Scott played under current Augsborg head coach Frank Haege for the Quad City Steamwheelers in the first two years of the Arena Football 2 league. In his two seasons with the Steamwheelers, the team went a combined 37-1 with two championships. Since 2004, Scott has been the wide receiver coach at Northwestern.

Scott and his wife Alisha have two children, Macey and Jordan.
