Augsburg College is nationally known for its inter-disciplinary and experiential teaching in Medieval Studies.

Its “Medieval Connections” course has been featured in the Minneapolis Star Tribune, on Minnesota Public Radio, in The Chronicle of Higher Education, and is no. 6 on College Bound’s list of “25 Cool, Funky, and Controversial Classes.”

Many of the same faculty who teach in the Medieval Studies program also act as instructors at the Medieval Minnesota Summer Gathering.

Medieval Minnesota is a unique summer learning experience appropriate for students aged 13 to 17. It consists of a one-week, boarding camp that re-imagines life in the Middle Ages.

In addition to medieval history, students will learn to develop a medieval character, to build a medieval costume and sword, to juggle, to play tunes on medieval instruments, and to perform authentic medieval stories, songs, and plays.

The course is geared toward training students for an on-site graduation performance to be held at the renowned Minnesota Renaissance Festival.

Space is limited. Apply early.
