

Major sources from Jason Mahn's plenary address, "The Gift of Being Placed."

---

Jennifer R. Ayres, Inhabitanace: Ecological Religious Education (Baylor University Press, 2019).

Wendell Berry, Life is a Miracle: An Essay Against Modern Superstition (New York: Counterpoint, 2000).

_____. The Hidden Wound, second edition (Counterpoint, 2010).

Mary Henold, "Learning to Bloom Where You're Planted: Adapting Vocation to the Specifics of Place," in Jason Mahn, ed. The Vocation of Lutheran Higher Education (Fortress/Lutheran University Press, 2016).

bell hooks, Belonging: A Culture of Place (New York: Routledge, 2009), 203.

Martin Luther, "Two Kinds of Righteousness" (1519) and "The Freedom of a Christian" (1520).

Jason Mahn, Neighbor Love through Fearful Days: Finding Purpose and Meaning in a Time of Crisis (Fortress, 2021)

Paul C. Pribbenow, "Lessons on Vocation and Location: The Saga of Augsburg College as an Urban Settlement." Word & World, vol. 34, no. 2 (Spring 2014), 149-159.

Vic Thasiah, "Life, Workplace, Democracy, Environment: Climate Justice and Liberal Education," (Draft), in So All May Flourish: The Aims of Lutheran Higher Education (working title), ed. Marcia Bunge, Jason Mahn, and Martha Stortz (Fortress, 2022)