

AUGSBURG AT A GLANCE

Augsburg is a friendly, faith-based campus that offers more than 50 undergraduate majors and nine graduate degrees to over 3,500 diverse students. Augsburg is committed to service learning, experiential education, inclusiveness, and the exploration of vocation. Defined by excellence in the liberal arts and professional studies, Augsburg is shaped by its urban and global settings, and guided by its Lutheran faith.

Trademarks of an Augsburg Education:

Commitment to Diversity and Inclusion: We provide programming and support for students representing a full spectrum of faith traditions, economic backgrounds, ethnicities, national origins, gender identities, and learning and physical differences. Rich diversity brings a wide variety of cultures and perspectives to our classroom and community life.

Academic Awards: Students have received highly competitive awards including the Gilman International, Goldwater, Phillips, Kemper, and Boren scholarships; Newman Civic Fellowship; and Fulbright Award.

Undergraduate Research: Through the Office of Undergraduate Research and Graduate Opportunity (URGO), students have the chance to participate in faculty-led research and scholarship at prestigious institutions across the U.S. and the world, helping prepare them for graduate school and the workforce.
