Join us to watch an award-winning documentary narrated by Golden Globe nominee Blair Underwood. Four high school students - an inner city athlete, a small town waitress, a Samoan warrior dancer, and the daughter of migrant field workers - pursue higher education as first generation students. This documentary was shot over the course of three years and features some of our nation's top educational experts (Richard Kahlenberg, The Century Foundation; J.B. Schramm, College Summit; Dr. Bill Tierney, University of Southern California).
